

Apps that we think are worth looking into:

This app is free and offers you 5 to 7 free apps a day. That is one of the places we have found our education apps for free.

This app allows you to create You Tube lists for your child without the adds or the unwanted suggestions on the side. Example: your child likes the Barbie movies, you can have them all on a play list without worrying about the “other Barbie” movies being suggested...

The following apps were purchased for a dollar or two or they were free. Most apps start out free, go up in price and within a few months they go free again. We have a variety of different apps for the same category because

1. Kids get bored of the same game quickly
2. they don't all like the same thing.

Learning A to Z is an awesome program but it does cost money to access the books. We use it as a homereading program with some students. I LIKE BOOKS is free and has a variety of books that can be read to your child. They are easy readers for their age group.

Called PINGUIN

These apps are great for teaching reading and sight words.

The preschool level is free. You can purchase the whole app for $4 and have 6 games and a very complete list of sight words for levels k through 5.

We use this one a lot.

Your child is developing language: that means learning new words, associating a word and a picture. Being able to classify objects and explain the classification will be an important skill to learn. Look up the other apps by this developer.

Understanding the order of a story is also an important skill they will be developing in the next few years.

This is the free version. You can upgrade to the full version. This app allows your child to put 3 or more pictures in order to tell a story. This is a great pre reading and prewriting activity.

This is also a good app for sequencing.

MATH Skills are also important to develop with your child. Can they count to 10? Can they recognize some amounts by glancing at them or do they still need to count 1-2-3-4 there are 4 apples on the table. Do they understand that you can regroup items differently? If I have 5 cookies, I can have one in my hand and 4 on a plate or 2 in my hand, 2 on a plate and one in my mouth... Here are some wonderful math apps.

MONTESSORI NUMBERS

This app can be found in a variety of languages and teaches numbers and number values (ones, tens, hundreds, thousands). This app is great as it can be set for smaller numbers (0 to 10) or bigger numbers. This app will be a great tool for your child from K to grade 5. The best part about this app is that the instructions are in English so parents can set the app and let the child learn the numbers in the desired language.
